About ESCE & OMNES Education

ESCE International Business School, a member of OMNES Education, is a leading French Grande École specialised in international business and global management. Located in Paris - La Défense, ESCE combines academic excellence, strong international exposure, and close corporate engagement.

As part of its strategic development and its roadmap toward international accreditations (AACSB, EQUIS), ESCE is strengthening its Faculty in key disciplines. The School seeks balanced academic profiles combining teaching excellence, research development, and institutional engagement.

A Research and a Faculty in interaction with the accredited Schools of the Omnes Education Group

OMNES Education is a private higher education institution located in France and with strong international scope. Year after year, its development has allowed it to become a major European player in Higher Education and Research. Its mission is to guarantee its students and learners a demanding, high-quality training experience, enabling them to acquire the skills and innovative abilities needed to enter the labor market and develop their careers in line with their expectations and plans in a turbulent global environment.

OMNES EDUCATION's ambition to develop its scientific and intellectual production is based upon five major principles: openness and interdisciplinarity, foresight and adaptability, innovation in pedagogy and learning experience, commitment, attention to the world and care for one and another.

The four accredited Schools of the Omnes Group, specialized in the field of management and digital, AI and technological engineering, are federating their research and support for the professional development of faculty members within the Omnes Education Research Center & Faculty.

Joining the ESCE allows potential candidates to benefit from an accompaniment in the development of projects related to pedagogy and research, combining digital and management skills, and the formalization and submission of European or ANR projects.

In addition, the potential candidates can benefit from close cooperation with companies with Boèce Funds for Research & Innovation, increase the impact of his/her intellectual contributions and research via public media exposure, undertake projects related to AI & digital pedagogical innovations, and collaborate with the group's Program Management team.
